Dear Turner Families,

The recent news of switching back to our Remote Learning phase has created different reactions for our families and students, for some relief and for others frustration. I am thankful for the time we did have in-person learning because of the positive rapport and relationships students were able to build with our teachers. It was so nice to have students back in classrooms with their energy and excitement to learn. We will continue to do everything we can to support your student through these difficult times.

As we prepare to return to Remote Learning, I wanted to communicate that student learning will be different for Monday, November 23 and Tuesday, November 24. For these two school days, students will learn and work asynchronously and are not expected to log into their classes during each block of time. Instead, students will use this time to complete any missing work, projects, iReady lessons, or assignments for their classes. We are hopeful that this time will allow students to get completely caught up in their classes, give them extra time for long-term projects or papers with a later due date, and feel ready to finish strong in the last few weeks of semester one.

When Remote Learning begins on Monday, November 30, students are expected to log into each class on time and remain in their virtual classroom for the class period. Attendance will be taken based on their logging into class and staying for the class period. While in Remote Learning phase, student work is no longer tied to their attendance. With the exception of this week, our weekly communication around learning expectations will still go out to our families Friday afternoon. I hope during our Thanksgiving Break you are able to relax and enjoy some quality time with your family. Please do not hesitate to reach out if you have questions or concerns.

Be Well,
Brandy Grieves, Principal
